General Tips

---

Talk to people and don't be an asshole

Dialogues are an important aspect of the game. You can start a conversation with anybody by clicking on their head. By carefully choosing your dialogue options, you can gain favor or disfavor with each characters. Characters will remember your actions with other characters that they know, so you'll need to be mindful of your choice. There will be rewards and consequences based on your actions.

Click on things to interact with them

Look around each location for interesting things. Try to search around with your cursor all over the place and when your cursor changes, that mean you can interact with it.

Don't forget to use your items

This is a point and click adventure game after all, so there will be puzzles that can be solved by using a combination of items in your inventory. Just drag the item from your inventory to the object you want to interact with. You can also right click on the item to examine it.

Travel to different places

Using your map, you can travel to different locations in the game. You can move around some places by clicking on the lower right or left corners of your screen.

Don't forget to eat

Since we're in the apocalypse, money is useless, but food isn't. You'll need to eat and gather food to keep yourself alive. Large calorie will be used as a unit to keep track of how much food you have in your inventory. You can also use food calorie as a currency to trade for items and other favors.

Sleep will replenish your energy

Traveling to different locations will make you tired. Make sure that you get enough sleep so that you can live another day.

Don't forget to use your sex and sneak abilities

Dragging these abilities from your inventory to the object you want to interact with will open up more options for you. Sex ability will open up sexual dialogues and sneak ability will allow you to peep behind closed doors.

Scavenge for supplies

Use your map and go to city centre to search for supplies. You have the option to either search a random location in the city or search that particular place for food. Searching random locations in the city could yield potential random events as well as finding new items and secret cards. However, the secret cards are very hard to find, so get your magnifying glasses ready. But I do hope the images on the card will make your time worthwhile.
