

Estate : Dominate Guide

How do choices and consequences work in Estate : Dominate

Almost all choices that you make are recorded by setting individual flags. The state of those flags is then used to customize the game. By the end of Release 6, the game is tracking about 80 flags. Some aren't in use much, or at all, but there is still an almost infinite number of possible combinations in play in your unique game. The upside of this approach is that the game is very organic: you don't just raise an abstract affection score with a character, but instead they remember exactly what you did and can react to that. The downside is that it makes a comprehensive guide almost impossible: there are simply too many small variations in each scene. So this isn't really a document to 'follow' to get a '100% completion'. Think of it more as reference material. If your Gallery is missing many images in a specific scene, you should be able to use this guide to learn how to find them.

In order to make using it as easy as possible, the flags are grouped into 4 categories:

1. Character paths: These are the most major flags in the game. At any given point, you are either submissive, neutral, or dominant. Just about everything you experience will be affected by this.
2. Kink preferences: These are as much about your preference as a player, as they are about the in-game MC, and the impact of them can range from minor to major. If you dislike 'pee' for example, the game will try to minimize that kind of content for you.
3. Major content choice: These flags lead to major, exclusive content. Things like alternative versions of scenes.
4. Minor content choice: These flags only have minor impact on content. Things like additional dialogue or an extra image somewhere.

Keep in mind that many choices will only have consequences a release or two down the line, so flags will move from Cat.4 into Cat.3 as the game develops. 'Major' and 'Minor' also doesn't imply importance. Deciding to watch someone in secret can be major content, but not have much story impact.

If this is your first or second time playing the game, consider not looking at this guide at all. The design behind the choices and consequences is all about making it feel real, and not like you are manipulating a game system. You will lose much of this if you obsess over setting the flags 'correctly'. There are no game over or win screens in the game, and no points to be collected. Just forget about optimization and enjoy your time.

Stairway to Heaven
Kitchen Boy			Well, she did lie to Isabella... No, it's better not to lie...		Lie Good [true] & Push Point +1
			Heather is my best friend... I don't want to be sucked... This has to be a trap. Well I do love me a nicely... If they have to know, I... They have put me in a... Maybe I'm just soothing...		Heather Pretty [true] Bush [true] Eager Shave [true]		Any flag that is colored blue, like the Bush flag in this scene, are 'Preference Flags'. They will unlock images, dialogue and MC thoughts relating to that preference. Set this flag to [false], and pubic hair will still exist in the game. The MC will stop thinking about bush though, and you won't get it shoved into your face as much.
